Politicians Weigh Effect of Hoover Selection of Finance Corp. Head.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The action of President Hoover in turning over control of the Reconstruction corporation directorate to Democrats, by the appointment to the board yesterday of Alton Pomerene, of Ohio, was being weighed for political significance today in the capital.

Word from Cleveland was that the former senator would not be here to take his post until next week. Meanwhile, although keeping their opinions to themselves in general for the present, legislators at the capitol conjectured whether the move would have a reflex in the presidential campaign.

Representative Rainey, the Democratic floor leader in the house, expressed the view that although men of his party allegiance will hold four of the seven directorships, the administration "can't" responsibly for the new relief law that the corporation must administer.

There was no indication today when the last director, who must be a Republican, will be appointed. Meanwhile, relief loans and other new activities of the corporation will await the arrival of Pomerene and the naming of a seventh director.

Corporation officials said that strength of nine and the ship turned over.

"We put around and raced for the scene. During the dash to the spot, I ordered all hands to prepare the lifeboats for launching and as soon as we got there all the crew save the cook and myself went over the side in boats to aid.

Reach Spot Quickly
"At the same time boats were called from Peihman light ship nearby. I can't say how long it was from the time of the catastrophe until our arrival, but it wasn't long. All the Niobe officers were lost except the captain and first mate.

"Our boats kept plying back and forth, picking up men from the water. Some of them had had to swim for an hour before we got them. Only six of the group that was attending class survived. They had been studying the theory of navigation.

This morning salvage vessels equipped with diving apparatus started work. All through the night searchlights played across the water where the Niobe went down, but no additional survivors were spotted.

Today the naval headquarters issued an official statement holding no one to blame for the disaster and discrediting reports that the vessel had been too heavily rigged under the circumstances.

banks, the sooner we will bring about the unrest that will lead to the revolution.

"All of the other activities: campaign, unemployed councils, workers ex-service men's leagues, etc., are going forward satisfactorily.

"We will all hope to see you in the near future as we know you are in a hot spot. Yours for the revolution."

A letter written to "Dear Comrade GH" read, in part: "I am very much encouraged because we have had plenty of runs against the big banks, particularly the big five in Chicago, meaning the First National, Continental, Illinois, etc., and the Union Trust and Cleveland Trust in Cleveland and others. My work here in breaking down the outpost of the banking structure in Detroit by breaking the First National here is bearing fruit."

"Our telephone propaganda is working wonderful. I have considered this program for a simultaneous run against all of these institutions through the country."

"Believe me, comrade, I sure have the president of this bank here on the verge of a nervous breakdown or something worse."

The reference in this letter to the "outpost of the banking structure in Detroit" was the affiliation of First National bank in Pontiac with the Detroit Bankers Co. of Detroit.

U. S. Secret Service at Work on Case

WASHINGTON, July 27.—Radical rumors circulated against banks of the country are being closely followed by the United States secret service, which already has investigated reports of a dozen or more such instances in a number of states.

The secret service agents have traced in several cities the circulation of rumors intended to cause runs on banks.

In a number of instances the agents have found that the reports were circulated by disgruntled or hysterical persons and no prosecution was followed.

In others, state authorities have taken over the prosecution of persons circulating the rumors.

W. H. Moran, chief of the secret service staff was interviewed circulating untrue stories concerning conditions of banks.

The chief said that in every case where the secret service had investigated the rumors it had been found the banks were in good condition and the stories were untrue.

While officials were reticent in discussing the situation they left the distinct impression that every step possible would be taken to trace down the originators of the rumors and bring about their quick prosecution.

Traylor Says Plot Was Nationwide

CHICAGO, July 27.—John A. Traylor, president of the First National bank of Chicago, said today he had reports from practically every large city in the nation concerning a plot to wreck banks by circulating unfounded rumors against them.

Information of an investigation at Pontiac, Mich., into such a plot, Traylor said the same tactics had been used in Chicago.

"There is no doubt," Traylor said, "but that runs on Chicago banks were caused by circulation of rumors by radically interested persons. Anonymous telephone calls were used in attempts to cause panic among depositors of even the largest and strongest banks."

GREEK ENGINEERS IN SEWAGE PLANT VISIT

Foreign Health Officials Study Model Sanitation System of Marion.

Sanitary engineers of the national ministry of health of Greece this morning inspected the city sewage disposal plant and the Marion Water Co. softening plant to obtain data for use in sanitary work in Greece.

The visitors are Christos L. Floras and Emile C. Boyazis, sanitary engineers. Service Director E. O. Unclapper several days ago received a letter from the University of North Carolina asking that the men be given opportunity to inspect the plants. Both engineers have been fellows of the Rockefeller Foundation at the university.

The sewage disposal plant is considered a model plant for its type of construction, and has been visited by sanitary engineers from every part of the country and from a number of foreign countries in recent years.

LORAIN UNEMPLOYED CLASH WITH POLICE

Several Jobless Hurt in Futile Attempt to Release Leader from Jail.

LORAIN, O., July 27.—Milling about the city jail, nearly 400 unemployed citizens made an attempt last night to release their leader from arrest, and were driven off only when the police resorted to clubbing.

Several of the unemployed were injured, though not seriously. Maurice Stamm, 25, of Lorain, was knocked down by a police club, and was given medical attention.

Stamm then was held in custody as was the previously-arrested leader, Leon Collow of Cleveland. Officers said charges against the two would be filed today.

The trouble began when the city council refused to admit Collow to a hearing on the distribution of relief to the city's poor. Objection to the man was based on the claim that he is not a United States citizen.

When the police intercepted the leader as he approached the council meeting, he took him to jail, the crowd demanded the council obtain his release. Their demand refused, the unemployed shouted, "We'll take him from the police!" and started for the jail.

At the jail entrance, however, they found the police ready for them. The melee followed, with the unemployed getting the worst of it. The police denied having received any injuries, but several of their opponents suffered cuts and bruises.

The city council meeting had been arranged at the request of the unemployed council to consider suggestions for improvement of relief work. Collow had planned to present the case for the unemployed delegation.

LEGION WILL SEND BOY SCOUTS TO CAMP

Two Patrols Will Go to Camp-arral at New Philadelphia in August.

Committees were named to arrange for sending the two patrols of Troop No. 5, Boy Scouts, to the regional camparral at New Philadelphia next month and to complete plans for the annual picnic at the meeting of Bird McGinnis Post No. 182, American Legion, last night in the dugout. A talk by Congressman Grant E. Mouser was a feature of the meeting.

Members of the two patrols of the Scout troop sponsored by the legion will represent the Harding Area at the camparral to be held Aug. 17, 18 and 19. This is the second year the troop has had a patrol in the regional contest. Last year the troop patrol represented the Harding area at the regional meet at the Ohio State Fairgrounds where they made a credible showing for the organization.

Gene Hill was named chairman of the committee in charge of sending the boys to the camp. He will be assisted by L. K. Warner, R. M. Eikenberry, J. MacDonald, R. C. Shure and W. W. Willis.

D. J. MacDonald was named chairman of the committee in charge of plans for the picnic. Other members of the group are V. E. Goff, C. H. Howard, Elmer Smith, J. O. Tuttle Jr., C. C. Cairwell and Mrs. Loring K. Warner. The picnic will probably be held some time next month.

Congressman Mouser gave an interesting talk on "The Good of the Legion" following the business session. A report on the district conference held July 17 at Columbus was made. The next meeting will be Aug. 9.

FIRE DESTROYS BARN ON JOHN NAVIN FARM

Cause of Blaze Not Definitely Determined; Contents Also Burned.

A fire which is believed to have started either from spontaneous combustion or by tramps who had spent the night in the building, this morning destroyed a barn with all the contents on the John Navin farm on the Navin road south of the Harding Highway near Big Island. The loss was estimated at $1,000 on both the building and the contents. It was partly covered by insurance.

One hundred bushels of corn, four tons of hay, 20 bushels of soy beans and several pieces of farm machinery, all the property of Mr. Navin, were destroyed. There was no clock in the building, neighbors said.

Elmer Andrews, a tenant on the farm, was absent at the time and blaze was discovered by Mrs. Paul Thompson who lives across the road from the Navin farm. She summoned neighbors who kept the blaze from spreading to adjoining buildings. Mr. Navin lives on Cummin avenue.

VON GRONAU WILL CONTINUE TO COAST

By The Associated Press
MONTREAL, July 27.—Wolfgang Von Gronau, who reached here yesterday evening after a trans-Atlantic flight from Germany over the Arctic route is going on the Detroit, Chicago, Milwaukee and Pacific coast, he said today.

He indicated he has no idea of attempting a flight around the world over the route which Colonel Lindbergh followed last year, but that his flight and the two trans-Atlantic trips which preceded it had no objective but the charting of a speedy service by air from Europe to the Pacific.

He will stay here until Thursday and then go on to the coast. He expects that the trip will take about two weeks, for he intends to make a complete study of flying conditions along the way.

Orders went from the treasury to the district commissioners yesterday afternoon.

But they had not reached Glassford, so after trying unsuccessfully to reach the commissioners by the telephone, he returned to his office to await the delayed orders.

Later, the huge wrecking crane reached the camp and was driven up an alley to stop beside the first building to be demolished.

Immediately it was surrounded by a large number of veterans who viewed it with interest and christened the heavy projectile a "potato masher."

Waters was summoned. His only statement, received with cheers, was: "Men who belong in this billet, stay in this billet."

50 Police Idle
The police contingent of 50 men, ordered out early today to help with the evacuation, was dismissed after hanging around the area for three hours with nothing to do.

Only one arrest was made. One of the followers of John Pace, leader of the radical group of the bonus army, encamped in another part of the city, went to the scene and attempted to make a speech. He was seized by the military police of the bonus army and hauled away in a patrol wagon.

My Beauty Hint

KEEP fit by plenty of outdoor exercise. In the winter I spend as much time as possible at mountain resorts, skiing and ice skating. Both are stimulating and the greatest aids to beauty I have discovered. In the summer I play badminton because it is a fast, exhilarating game.

And bicycle riding, which has been credited to me, is no gag. I really do ride a bicycle. It also helps to keep me trim.

The Faithful Cheat

BY RUBY M. AYRES

Copyright, 1932, by Ruby M. Ayres.

CHAPTER SIXTEEN

"I love my madness!"

There were friends who would take her for a time, of course, but one could not count on her for anything but a passing fancy, when it was known that she had no money, and that she was anxious for her money. She knew they would not.

"But you like John, don't you?"

Flora said amazed. "I always thought you were frantically fond of him."

"Fond of him!" Sandra echoed. "I'm fond of lots of men, but I haven't the least desire to marry any of them."

Flora sighed. "Somehow I thought it was more than that—I thought you were in love with him," she said.

"In love with him—?" Sandra raised her eyes and looked at her reflection in the mirror. "What made you think that?" she asked slowly.

"Oh, I don't know—but when you're together, you seem so suited. I've always felt that even if you marry anybody else, John will always be the one you should have married."

"I should think he would be tremendously flattered."

Flora came across to her sister. "What's the matter with you?" she said in a strangely shaken voice. "We've changed so—both of us. We used to be the greatest pals—we always told each other everything—everything we hoped for and dreamed about—and we're quite changed. What's the matter with us, Sandra?"

Sandra jerked her shoulder to free it of her sister's touch.

"It's life, I suppose," she said. "And the way we've been brought up. It's no good being mushy about it—it's not happiness—it's just suffering all the time."

"Are you so fond of Jocelyn?" Sandra asked.

"There was a tragic silence, then Flora went on—"But as far as he's concerned, I can die. He won't have me on any terms, poor darling. She laughed a little. "It makes him angry because he's in love with me. He'd much rather have had a dull, ordinary love affair with some girl; he'd have enjoyed being properly engaged, and then getting married in the orthodox way at some fashionable church, and a month's honeymoon in Italy and all the rest of it. . . . She broke off, only to admit after a moment, "And I should have loved it too. You know, in spite of everything, I'm just an ordinary creature in my heart. Hopelessly middle-class I suppose. Since I married Ben, everything's been a big sham—all the ceremony, and ostentation. If only you knew how I loathe a maid to help me dress—"

"Flora."

"Oh you can stare," Flora said. "It's the truth, though I don't suppose anyone would believe me. I could have been perfectly happy in a little house—with Jocelyn. But it's life, isn't it—that we should always long for the things we can't have."

There was a profound silence, which Flora broke abruptly.

"I didn't know John was back," she said.

"Yes, he came this evening."

"Have you seen him?"

"No."

"He was at the theater tonight—with a girl?"

"Was he?"

"Yes, and that appalling Cassidy man."

"I like Cassidy; he amuses me."

"I hate him; he's a sponger—and I don't believe he's really a friend of John's—it just suits him to hang on to him."

"I don't believe John has ever given him a cent," Sandra said defensively.

"Not in cash perhaps," Flora agreed. "But there are other ways. Sandra stifled a pretended yawn. "I'm tired; do you mind if I go to bed?"

"Very well; shall I see you in the morning?"

The two girls looked at one another.

"Because I'm going very early," Flora said.

The color faded from Sandra's face; until this moment she had not really believed in her sister's sincerity; she was so used to Flora's little scenes and had been almost sure that in the morning she would have forgotten all about her over-night resolutions, and would slip back into the old luxurious rut.

"You really mean to go?" she asked, shortly.

"You're mad," Sandra said. The elder girl laughed. "If I am, I love my madness. You'll regret it all your life."

"I must risk that. You always have to take a risk in big things."

Sandra stood looking at her sister helplessly.

"You'll have changed your mind in the morning," she said with a confidence she was far from feeling.

Flora shook her head. "I don't think so."

She went away then, and Sandra stood staring at the closed door.

"What will become of me?" she was asking herself blankly.

Sandra almost laughed as she remembered that Flora had believed her to be in love with John! She had never loved any one except Mark, and now, after only a month she was already asking herself if even that had really been love—the headlong passionate feeling she had felt for him and which had swept her off her feet so completely.

So many people married for what they believed to be love—they spent a few rapturous months, or perhaps even years together, and then things either began to go wrong, or else they grew commonplace and drab.

Mark believed that love never died; he had told her that when she was old and he was old. . . . She had thrilled to hear him say that, but was it the truth?

Perhaps some day there would be another woman in his life and he would long for his freedom.

Perhaps some day there would be another man in her life—a man who would mean more to her than Mark had ever meant. . . .

How one's thoughts ran on!

Sandra found herself thinking how little she really knew about Mark. She had danced with him and dined with him, and lived with him for just 24 hours, but the man himself was a complete stranger to her. It was rather a frightening thought, and yet on the other hand how little he knew about her too! He thought she was sweet and good, and loyal; he saw her through the rose-colored glasses of love, those kindly glasses that never quite reflect the truth.

She was Mark's wife, but in her heart was a queer throbbing dread that she was going to lose John Anderson.

And just now—if Flora really went away in the morning, she would need him so badly.

Of course she could go out to Mark if the worst came to the worst. . . . that seemed a terrible way to put it.

Surely if the best came to the best should have been the right way in which to think of a future when they would be together again.

But John had said that life where Mark had gone was 'damnable!'

"Heat, flies, loneliness, tinned food, fever and an ever increasing longing for home—" she remembered his words so faithfully.

They painted an unenticing picture.

She crept into bed and lay awake for a long time staring into the darkness, trying to comfort herself with the belief that in the morning Flora would laugh at her over-night emotion, and that life would go on in the same comfortable rut.

Flora could not possibly upbraid them all so calmly—it was her duty to consider the man she had married, if she had no thought for anyone else.

Helena Brixton's Appeal for Help. Proves the Tonic Needed To Save Lillian Underwood from Lapsing Into a Complete Break-down.

DICKY once said that "if Lillian were in her coffin and heard a cry for help, she would push up the lid and climb out to see what she could do." His comment was justified for me when at the sound of Helena Brixton's wailing appeal to her, Lillian started up from the lethargy which had so alarmed me, and with eyes no longer staring but alive with quick sympathy rushed to her friend and put her arms around Helena's quivering figure.

"Tell me what has happened," she commanded, and I saw with relief that her keen brain was functioning as well as her sympathies. She knew as well as I that Helena had no real knowledge of what had happened to her husband, and that no word or look of ours must tell her how close to the truth her terrified cry was.

Saved Lillian from Collapse.

For the moment, Helena Brixton's misery seemed to me fortuitous. It had saved Lillian, I was sure, from a collapse. Then pity for the stricken woman blotted out everything else, and I went swiftly to my first aid kit and prepared a restorative for the violent trembling of her whole figure betrayed how sorely she was in need of something to quiet her. Over Helena's shoulder Lillian nodded approval as I held up the glass, and in another two minutes we had Helena leaning back in a chair, and were forcing the potion down under Lillian's urging.

"Everything will be all right, I tell you," Lillian was saying over and over. "Sam's a man, not a helpless child. Who told you they had him?"

Her "they" was as vague—purposely so, I knew—as Helena's own phrasing.

Helena swallowed the last of the potion, and looked up pitifully.

"Nobody," she said. "Ronald told me his father had gone to New York to look for the girls, but I know better. Something's happened to Sam! I always know when something's happened to him."

There was such conviction in her tones that I shuddered at the remembrance of the blow I had seen dealt to her husband. I was not surprised at her statement, however. It always has been my belief that a man and woman who truly love each other have a certain unexplainable psychic sense of anything evil happening to

Concert Group To Work with Chautauqua Board

Local Musical Organization Will Augment Programs Next Year; Plans Now Under Way for Week of Entertainment; Committee Named.

As a measure to keep Chautauqua alive in Marion and to give patrons a week of programs in 1933 instead of the customary five days, the Marion Chautauqua organization and the Marion Concert association will work together.

Announcement of the cooperative movement was made last night by Rev. J. A. Carricker of Forest Lawn Presbyterian church, treasurer and general manager of the Chautauqua organization, between acts of "Chicken Feed or Wages for Wives," a three-act comedy presented by the Freeman Hammond Players.

Under the plan as outlined briefly last night, the concert association will augment next year's program with programs by Marion talent that will enlarge the season to seven days. In past years, the Chautauqua season has extended over a period of five days, with programs furnished exclusively by Chautauqua bureaus.

To Aid in Drive

The concert association also will assist the Chautauqua organization in its drive for pledges and in the season ticket sale next year. W. E. Orcutt, president of the concert association will present the plan to-night from the viewpoint of the association, which includes the Marion Civic orchestra, the Marion Lecture-Recital club and the Canto club.

A nominating committee for next year's officers was announced last night by Rev. Carricker. The committee, consisting of John H. Clark, chairman, Mrs. James Cooper and C. Carl May, probably will make its report Thursday night at the closing program of the season.

The Freeman Hammond Players presented a play yesterday afternoon, "Your Uncle Dudley," in addition to last night's play. Both were comedies and were presented with an appreciation of the laugh-inducing qualities.

Freeman Hammond, head of the company, played the leading role in the afternoon play and a lesser part last night. The company consists of Hammond, Ada McDonald, Lucetta Parker, Jack Powell, Cosine Jenop, W. Charles Roe and George Sylvan.

By using drapes as a background, and making attractive costume changes, both comedies presented a more finished quality than the plays presented in former years.

"Your Uncle Dudley" told in amusing fashion of a man more interested in civic affairs and loving cups than his paint and varnish factory. He was a whizz at raising money for any civic movement but his own financial affairs were a different matter, until his despotical sister with Dulled by Repetition.

Weeks of difficult negotiation stretch ahead of the Ottawa conference, whose convening was given close attention in the United States last week. After the opening speeches, most of them of the trial balloon variety, will come the conferences. From the conferences will come new opinions, altered policies, direct clashes, friction and, perhaps, constructive results. Will Rogers hammered the head of the nail again a few days ago when he said "there hasn't been a conference since the beginning of the war that hasn't stirred up more hate and done more harm than it has good."

Vital as is America's interest in the discussions at Ottawa, its attention is destined to be dulled by repetition long before the conference is adjourned. The empire's business, except that part of it which directly affects the United States, is its own. It will be enough for interested parties this side of the Canadian border to know the results. As for the rest—the disposition of those matters which are of immediate concern to them—they can do nothing. They can no more prevent the British empire and its individual parts from initiating action harmful to them than the British empire could prevent them from rearing a tariff wall which injured it. Preventive medicine is not the style in treating international commercial relations.

The wise men at Ottawa probably are on the wrong trail, but it is a well-worn one; they will have plenty of company. Far ahead of them in any foolish adventure they may undertake they will be able to see the United States trying to get out of one commercial scrape after another. Considering the unflinching attitude of all nations for the same treacherous course one may wonder if there is any other. Perhaps there is no safe road in a world where cut-throat competition is the fundamental policy.

A Big Bite.
The order suspending the Chicago Board of Trade and the board's immediate report that it will fight the federal government to the last ditch both smack strongly of bluff. It will be a great surprise if the affair does not wind up in a tangle of bad feeling and no action. The government has bitten off too big a bite to chew.

To the American with no direct interest in the marketing of grain, which is the board's service to business, its suspension for discrimination against the government-controlled Farmers' National Grain Corp. and a subsidiary is significant as the manifestation of a fight between it and Uncle Sam's federal farm board. In fact, regarded in one way, the suspension is a demand for an apology from the board of trade.

It has been embarrassing the government's agencies of agricultural assistance by a policy of skepticism, developing frequently into a policy of open antagonism. The culmination of this policy was the board's refusal to allow the Farmers' National Grain Corp. either membership or privileges, charging that the corporation is not actually a co-operative organization because it does not do 50 per cent of its business with its own members.

On the one hand, therefore, the incident marks an attempt by private business to retaliate against what has been resented for a long time as undue governmental interference with the marketing of grain. On the other hand, it is being interpreted as an attempt by the government further to control the marketing of grain by closing the world's principal grain market during its rush season.

The quarrel will be taken into the courts, and while it is there the board will remain in operation. The suspension order is effective Aug. 8, but legal means undoubtedly will be found to block it. In the meantime, an "escape" clause in the suspension order will be examined carefully. It provides that the government can back out gracefully if the Board of Trade recedes from its position. Assuredly, this provision will be used to advantage, politicians being the practical men they are and grain traders being the business men they are.

They "Ignored" It.
From arid Texas comes a familiar excuse. Overwhelmingly defeated on a proposal for resubmission of the prohibition question, drys have tried to soften the blow by explaining that they "ignored" the question. This means only one thing: that drys are so sure of their ability to defeat the wets in congress that they refuse to bother with preliminary fights in Texas or anywhere else. No one denies, furthermore, that congress is their best bet.

However, if they really are saving their strength for a crucial battle in Washington, there is an important fact that they have overlooked. That is the legislative habit of keeping one ear to the ground. Washington may do some slipshod legislative and administrative work, but it is doing what it thinks the folks back home want.

Approval of prohibition resubmission by Texas voters is a signal to every Texas representative whose district voted wet to get on that side of the fence. It is a signal to Texas senators that what ridiculous by repeating the trite excuse that they "ignored" the question. They confess, as all drys do when they resort to such a weak explanation, that they are at a loss to know what to do. They display a weak-kneed support of the principle.

Most dangerous of all, they invite the wets to attack a foe who is unwilling to fight. Wets, remembering their own familiar excuse that the drys put something over on them when prohibition was written into the Constitution, can be expected to show no mercy. None is deserved.

For the World's Sake.
Senator Borah's voice is big and his prestige powerful. He thinks independently and works independently. His countrymen respect him, even when they do not like him.

In a remarkably outspoken interview with representatives of the French press last fall, during the visit of the then premier of France, Pierre Laval, Senator Borah advocated total cancellation of all the war debts and reparations. Significantly, he did not at that time make cancellation contingent on disarmament. He did make cancellation of war debts contingent on cancellation of reparations, however.

Last Saturday night he stirred the United States and Europe again with a reiteration of the proposal, but with an important difference in tone this time. Whereas previously he had made cancellation of the debts dependent on cancellation of reparations, he made it dependent on disarmament in his later speech. The conference of Lausanne virtually accomplished his previous requirement—cancellation of reparations.

There is a change of policy indicated that will cause considerable confusion. In Europe, particularly, it will be noticed and emphasized, and Americans never should forget that European ears are attuned sensitively to Mr. Borah's statements. As chairman of the senate foreign relations committee he is recognized on the other side of the Atlantic as an official spokesman.

Perhaps the senator writes his speeches with the audience in mind. If so he was speaking to Americans last Saturday night. He, foremost of the isolationists, was trying to convince them that cancellation of the war debts would be a sound business move—an act of enlightened selfishness. He did not dare to hope that cancellation would be approved without Europe pledging good faith by scaling down armaments; no American in public life could afford to ignore this fundamental consideration in his countrymen's attitude on the war debts.

Senator Borah's latest pronouncement on this vital matter of public policy is, therefore, the sequel to his statement last fall. It is another phase of the effort which is being made to convince Americans that they can help themselves best by helping Europe. If, in return, Europe is willing to help by bolstering world confidence through tangible progress toward disarmament, it is an extraordinarily important phase, because Senator Borah's prestige is so great.

This nation needs a stronger leader to help it settle the war debt question as independently as possible of domestic politics. Mr. Borah has made a bid for the position. He argues that the restoration of confidence which would follow cancellation would more than repay this nation in increased international trade and domestic inflation. He asks from Europe, as a guarantee of good faith, that it will cut its expenses of preparing for war.

The first reaction probably will be violent disagreement. But Senator Borah probably has come as close to a common sense program as any man could.

Is It a Sacrifice?
The story of George Kojac, world's greatest backstroke swimmer, is different. A certain member of the Olympic team had he gone through the formality of qualifying, Kojac chose to work, instead. He is financing a medical education and glory can't be converted into money without losing amateur standing.

Here is an opportunity for a patron. Admiration for a young man willing to forego a chance to triumph in the Olympic games because he wants his parents to be able to say their son is a doctor leaps out of bounds. Kojac, however, may have a different conception of the situation.

He has been in the Olympic games before—a victor. He has tasted the wine of victory. Perhaps he has a greater desire now for the medal of accomplishment. What appears to be a sacrifice may be in reality only a choice of the road to a career that still will be productive and remunerative years after the last man has forgotten who was the best backstroke swimmer in the 10th Olympiad.

Comment of the Press

STATE'S DUTY TO WORKER.
Ohio has what is generally recognized as the best workman's compensation law. Employers who fought the passage of this law are now its most powerful champions. It represents a form of insurance that comes only when the state becomes conscious of its responsibility to the worker.

Protecting the worker against accident, and caring for him in the days of incapacity due to industrial accident represents forms of conservation which recommend themselves to every thinking citizen.

Loss of man power due to accidents is just as much an economic waste as to squander millions on unnecessary governmental extravagance.

In this state the economic drain on employers due to industrial accidents in 1931 represented a staggering total of $85,000,000. In a normal business year this amount would be greater.

Despite the increasing efforts to safeguard the worker there were 1,134 industrial workers killed in Ohio in 1931, 23 were permanently disabled and 1,333 workers were permanently maimed.

Not only is there a duty of employer to employ but there is a manifest responsibility on the part of the worker to abide by the safety rules and to take no unnecessary risks which might involve not his own safety alone but that of his fellow workers.

Thus there is a mutual responsibility involved. Ohio takes care of the maimed worker in industry. But at best the insurance is insufficient and temporary. Workers should take pride in this form of welfare. But they should be ever zealous in avoiding risks in industry which create the staggering total heretofore mentioned.—Telegraph Times.

Daily Guide to Health
BY DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND.

Keeping Feet Comfortable Essential to Health.
Recently I wrote about the importance of walking as a form of exercise, and there can be no question of its value, providing the health of the feet permits walking in comfort. Today I want to give you a few rules relating to the care of the feet.

Comfort in walking is possible only when the feet function normally. It is also true that to a remarkable degree the general health is dependent upon the health of the feet.

Disturbance in the nervous system and other unpleasant disorders often are traceable to the feet. Many of them are caused by wearing improper shoes, and this is particularly true of women. Too many of them wear shoes that are extremely pointed, or of smaller size than their feet call for, or having unusually high heels. Men, too, are prone to neglect their feet for the sake of fashion, or carelessly choose improperly fitting shoes because they do not realize the importance of well-fitted footwear.

Shoes that are too small never should be worn. If a mistake must be made, it is far better to wear shoes that are too large. Shoes should be broad and give ample room for movement of the feet. They should fit snugly in the arch, to give the necessary support, and the heels should be broad and low.

Callouses, bunions and bony deformities never should be overlooked. Neglecting them may lead to serious and permanent disability, or result in some painful, slightly deformed foot.

If you have flat foot or weak foot, it is imperative that you wear proper footwear and do special foot exercises. These corrective exercises, most important in overcoming weakness of the muscles of the foot and leg, should be done in bare or stockinged feet. Following are a few of the accepted and recommended foot exercises.

New York Day by Day
BY O. O. MCINTYRE.

New York, July 27.—Like London, famous street crisis, New pavement characters offer a prickling panorama. No mid-town figure is gayer than Blind George, the newsman, holding forth on a Bryant Park corner. On a lower reach of Lafayette, Slick Hat Tony adds his touch of the ridiculous.

In high silk hat and frock coat, he furnishes shines to his customers. Somebody gave him the regalia and dared him to wear it on duty. He did, and had his biggest day. That was three years ago, and Tony prospered amazingly. And there is the top-hatted fellow with the electrically lighted shirt front.

Also, Skyscraper Ike, who weaves perilously through street traffic on 20-foot-high stilts, placarded with a quick lunch menu. Brooklyn Ada has worked the same block in West 46th for innumerable years, always in need of "only a nickel to get to Brooklyn."

Apple Mary, who stands near the entrance of 26 Broadway.

Dusk brings its pairs of blind musicians in single file, who parade Broadway, rendering lively tunes. On a stretch of upper Riverside is Cohen, the leather-limbed photographer, who has stood on the roadside with his tripod for ten years. Battery Dan of the barge office.

In fifth street is the sombered Indian, hawking wiggling green snakes of wood. And, of course, the flood of streeturchins with single copies of magazines, solicit single motorists. "Buy this, Miss Claire and Bert Lutz!"

Keep a watchful eye on Doug Fairbanks, Jr., and Buster Collier in pinfire days. It is somehow a desolating thought, none of us will go Frankie in this world. Frank Case expressed it perfectly in a privately circulated pamphlet. He wrote: "Frankie has made his last trip up. He will not be down again."

A subtlety of ragamuffins these days is a sleeping racket. Theatergoers return cars, parked in side streets, to find tatterdemalions feigning slumber on the running board. Awakened, they begin a snuffle off in a giggling frustration. The artifice always inspires a jingle of coins.

Edgar Saltus zoomed all too briefly across literary skies. With his great gifts, he wrote comparatively little. Yet he has a staunch and select coterie of worshippers as fervid as the followers of Conrad or Wells. Many rate him an epigrammatist on par with Whistler and Wilde. I thought of him today, after a flash at a headlined "love at first sight" society romance quickly beached in a tabloid headline. Saltus once wrote: "Love at first sight ends in divorce at first sight."

I often wonder if some of the most pleasant human contacts are not with night elevator men. Like seasons but never hardens them. Who, having met, could forget the white-haired veteran of the Longdon Savoy's life? Or Old Wash at the Hartgrave 20 years ago? Or the asthmatic-optimist of the Ritz? Or the scholarly looking courier at 200 Park?

The Marry-Go-Round
BY HELEN ROWLAND.

THE GOOD NEW DAYS
"There are lots of bright spots appearing on our cloudy horizon these days," remarked the Golf Widow. "Lots of compensations, I mean."

"The prompt way in which husbands come home to dinner is, in itself, a revelation. Many a man who used to be the life of the party and the light of the night-club is now a sane and sober little fireproof companion, with whom his wife is getting acquainted all over again. When a man has no money for whoopee palaces, poker of golf, his wife gets lots more of his society."

"Another delightful sign of the times is the passing of the elderly Don Juans and Casanova's. Those dear old middle-aged girl-charmers, who once thought themselves things of beauty and boys forever, with too much 'it' to waste on any one woman, have had their vanity painfully punctured. They have discovered that no amount of 'sex appeal' will offset a flat pocketbook; and that, next to scrambled eggs, nothing cools and hardens so quickly as a flapper's heart, when Daddy has nothing to offer but love."

"As for the flapper—ah, where are the flappers of yesterday? I'll tell you where. Half of them have found jobs and gone to work, and the rest are in business-schools learning how to be regular women and useful citizens, and hoping to marry some poor young man and darn his socks—instead of yearning to be some rich old man's darling."

"It's been a wholesome thing for the married women, too. Many a spoiled and pampered wife who was lolling around expensive summer hotels, worrying about her figure and so bored to death that she was headed straight for Reno, and the pizolo game, has had to pitch in and put on a kitchen apron or go down town and get a job—and thereby has escaped eczema, phantosis and fatty degeneration of the brain, and is finding life more interesting again."

"In short, all the malaises and barnacles and lightweights and short measures that cluttered up this world—all the playboys and playgirls—are either being educated or being transformed into responsible human beings."

"Everybody is getting his face her eyes open, perceiving what a fool he was making of himself, and settling down to a healthier and more normal existence."

"The jazz age is over. 'Easy money' is no more. Boudiers and grafters and snobs and four-flushers are out of the picture. 'Velvet' and silk-plush jobs and feathered bed existences are almost unknown. And I'm not sorry for it. I'm glad of it."

"It isn't poverty and struggle and hard work that wreck a man, a woman or a nation. It's too much money, and prosperity, and ease and luxury."—Copyright, 1932, King Features Syndicate, Inc.

Daily Talk to Parents
BY ALICE JUDSON FEALE

MASCULINE INFLUENCE NEEDED.
Vance is a handsome, well grown lad, whose excellent school record and courteous manner are a source of pride to his parents.

He is the kind of a boy who makes childless people sigh and feel that they have missed something, and whose parents can afford to be eloquently silent while others praise him.

And Vance gets on well with other boys. He likes sports. He swims and plays tennis well. Superficially he seems like an exceptionally fine lad with a good start in the right direction. Yet closer observation reveals flaws not in themselves serious but indicative of problems and of possible trouble to come.

People say, "Vance takes after his mother." He does. Not only does he resemble her physically, but he walks and talks as she does, uses his hands with the same fastidiousness and has her nervous, high-strung laugh.

Dec. 18 at Epworth M. E. church.
The association will present Han-expects to invite all church choirs of Marion to participate in the chorus.

T. H. Evans, director of music in the public schools, and active in the association, will direct the association chorus, composed of the Leclaire-Rodall and Canto club choruses this year.

As far as possible, the solo parts for the oratorio will be se-

the two choruses. The music committee in charge of the oratorio, headed Tuesday morning, consists of Mr. Evans, chairman, Mrs. John the solo parts will be assigned.

In addition to the oratorio, the association will participate in the annual extended which will be held at Ada on Feb. 22, 1932, and will give its annual spring concert.

PHILS THREATEN TO STAGE UPEHAVAL IN SENIOR LEAGUE RACE

Shotton Sluggers May Upset Calculations in Long Home Stand.

By The Associated Press.
The Phillies, stating another extended home stand, may supply the big news of the next few weeks in the National League.

In a virtual tie for third place today, the club promises to be higher when Klem, Foster, Whitely and Burt get through with a few dozen visiting pitchers.

Burt Shotton's slugging took a 10 to 5 victory over Cincinnati yesterday's opener. Klem, Foster and Whitely hit homers.

The Pirates and Giants, splitting a doubleheader, split a home game with two aboard helped the Giants take the first, 7 to 3, but the league leaders came back to capture the second, 7 to 5, in 16 innings.

The Chicago Cubs tomorrow to the Boston Braves, 7 to 2. Brooklyn's surprising Dodgers thumped the St. Louis Cardinals twice, 12 to 6 and 5 to 4.

Two contests survived the lull in the American league. The Boston Red Sox topped their newest pitcher, Johnny Welch, here on the Chicago White Sox for a 6 to 1 victory, and George Blahodich's steady pitching, and his angle in the second game, the St. Louis Browns a 3 to 2 decision over Washington.

HAYWORTH SETS NEW BACKSTOPPING MARK

Detroit Tigers' Catcher Handles 337 Chances Without Error.

By The Associated Press.
CHICAGO, July 27.—Three hundred and thirty-seven chances without an error.

That is the achievement of Ray Hayworth, peppery young catcher of the Detroit Tigers, whose performance was hailed today as a major league record for backstops. Henry Pierpont Edwards, statistician for the American league, stamped Hayworth's work as a record after digging into the many years of figures.

This season, to date, Hayworth has participated in 67 games and made 280 putouts and forty assists without a blemish. In the last six games of the 1931 season, he had 31 putouts and three assists for a grand total of 357.

That eclipsed the previous American league record of 284 chances made by Johnny Basler, also of Detroit, and the National league mark of 325 by Earl Grace of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Grace started August 29, 1931, ran up 34 errorless chances by the end of the season, and up to date this season has handled 291 without a misplay.

WET TRACK SLOWS FIRST NIGHT EVENTS

Gay O'Donna Cops 2:24 Pace with Queen Abbie Showing Way to Claiming Pace Field.

Before a crowd held to a small figure by threatening weather, the annual four-night short ship harness race meeting sponsored by the Marion Driving club got under way last night at the fairground track. Approximately 800 persons saw the inaugural light's three events.

Nothing sensational in the way of speed was turned on in the first night, the horses being slowed considerably by a track made heavy by the torrential rains of yesterday. Unless more rain falls today the circuit should be in first class condition for some speedy stepping in tonight's three events. The best time last night was turned in by George G in the claiming pace, 2:24. The day gelding piloted by Walton stepped the second mile heat in 2:11.5. One race, the 2:16 trot was forced to go an extra heat before the winner was decided.

Gay O'Donna Wins
Gay O'Donna took one heat to get started in the opening event of the evening, the 2:16 pace but stepped out in the final two heats and grabbed first money by romping home ahead of the field in both heats. The Great Mrs Walnut.

TONIGHT'S RACES
Three more events are on the program for tonight's short ship racing. The first event will get under way promptly at 8:15 p. m. The entries for the events follow:

2:24 PACE (SECOND DIVISION): Peter Guy, Anderson; Silver Volo, Ford; Jean Stratton, McMillen; Flo Hanley, Erskine; Mitzie, Bell; Miss Busloff, Putnam; Guy Eagle, Cartmel; Ada Wilson, Hecker; Red Tanner, Walton; Margaret Vonlan, McQuig; Pearlant Helen, Smart; Carolina Hal, Clark.

2:14 PACE: Commodore Burns, Vallery; Wilma, Cartmel; Calvin May, Smart; Freddie H, Jewell; Tennis Hall, Jones; Widow Brooke, McQuig; Bertha Signal, Walton; Prince Mae, McMillen.

2:16 TROT: DeWitt Clinton, Squires; G. E. S. Ford; Arlon Guy Scott, Shaw; Volo the Great, Almsworth; LaSenta, Erskine; Lillian S, unnamed; Harry Brooke, Edman; Gregor Wilson, Coppess; Junior McElwain, unnamed; Gold Elawah, Plaxico; Harold Guy, McMillen; Ray Butler, Butts; Peter Strong, Smart.

showed a clean pair of heels to the field in the opening heat but could do no better than second in the second and third heats, when Gay O'Donna breezed home in the lead. The time was 2:14.5. Walton's Cody of Marysville piloted the winner.

The second race of the program, the 16 trot, went four heats before the Guy finally triumphed in the extra heat. Just the Guy romped home ahead of the field in the first heat by a comfortable margin and looked the part of the race winner in doing it. However, the day gelding owned and driven by Joe McMillen of London could get no better than a seventh and third in the next two heats. Frank Ideal showed the way in the second heat, stepping the mile in 2:14.5, and David McElwain was in front in the third heat, winning by a nose in the same time as the second heat. Just the Guy trailed both David McElwain and Frank Ideal for three quarters of the extra heat but closed in on the finish with a brilliant sprint that

Cleveland Agog As Opening of Stadium Nears

By The Associated Press.
CLEVELAND, O., July 27.—Suffering a violent attack of "baseball fever," Cleveland fans today saw "visions" of—Governor George White pitching the first ball in the Indians' opening game at the municipal stadium, Sunday.

Mayor Ray T. Miller wearing the big mitt behind the bat, Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis deciding whether the governor's throw was a ball or a strike.

President William Harbridge of the American league doing a short act of umpiring at first base, and President John A. Heydler of the National league doing an equally short umpiring act at third.

Quite possibly the fans were only having a "pipe dream" but at that their hope was possible and an organized movement to effect it was under way. All of the five prominent men are officially expected to attend the stadium opener between the Indians and the champion Philadelphia Athletics.

Mayor Miller and the governor, like good politicians, are counted upon as certainties for the lineup, while Landis, Harbridge and Heydler were rated as "good possibilities."

Probably never before in Cleveland baseball history has a regular scheduled game been so eagerly anticipated.

BOTH TEAMS READY FOR HARD STRUGGLE IN "CROOCIAL" GAME

Entire Proceeds Go to Promotion of Boys' Playground Work.

With both teams vowing to hit everything the opposition tosses over clear out of Lincoln park, the First Presbyterians and St. Mary softball teams will collide today at the North side athletic field in a benefit game for the Y. M. C. A. playground work.

Ordinarily a mere ball game would not be something about which to get all worked up especially when the outcome is not even certain to decide a championship.

However, to all those who know the Irish and the Presbyterians, this game today is no ordinary ball game. To the impartial observer, either team may win but to any member of either team there is no question as to the outcome. Neither one can see the other. All of which goes to assure a bitterly contested ball game to those persons who lay down their dime.

Gene Gander and Don Shoemaker, two of the city's foremost flingers, will do the mound work today unless the managers of one team or the other decide on some kind of an unlooked-for strategic maneuver. Both teams are expected to have their full strength on the field although there is possibility that Milt Pohler, Presbie shortstop, will not be in the lineup on account of an injured leg.

The entire proceeds of the game will go to the Y. M. C. A. for use in promoting playground work in the city. This playground work has been going on all summer under the supervision of C. Carl May and has earned the hearty endorsement of civic leaders of Marion. Several hundred boys are being trained in various sports and are also being taught the elements of good sportsmanship. This work is done without any cost to the boys themselves.

The money which comes from today's game will go toward the purchase of medals for contest winners, equipment for furthering the work and other incidental expenses that have arisen in connection with the work.

A first class ball game for a first class cause. It starts at 6:15 p. m.

ST. PAUL, Minn., July 27.—Ossie Orwoll, hurler and first baseman, who came to the St. Paul American Association club from Portland, Ore., of the Pacific coast league several weeks ago, has been given his release, W. P. McNicking, business manager of the Saints, announced today.

Although he played the initial sack for the Portland club, he came here as a pitcher.

NURMI, FOREMOST IN MARATHON LIST

However, Decision Not Yet Made on Finn's Eligibility for Olympic Competition.

By The Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, July 27.—The names will have to be counted this week-end, after a debate conducted in at least three separate languages before it is decided whether Paavo Nurmi makes his second Olympic gesture in the century marathon, Sunday afternoon, Aug. 7.

If Nurmi is victorious at the international polo, his most difficult task may have been cleared for in spite of a strained achilles tendon. The great Finn is confident he can win the marathon in record time. Most critics agree with him.

If Paavo's suspension stands, however, the crowning feature of the Olympic track and field program will be a two-up. The contenders with or without Nurmi as the case may be, rank somewhat in this order:

Paul H. Brown of New York, representing Germany.

Teude, 1925 veteran, and two Koreans Gon and Kim, representing Japan.

A. T. T. and Willie Kyronen, decided.

Brooklyn representing Finland.

There is a chance of course, the chance of a third or fourth place where any one of a number of factors in weather condition and racing tactics may turn the scales.

The 1928 winner, Eli Oja of France, who happened to have a big day at Amsterdam, turned pro afterward and has faded from the scene.

COLUMBUS MOVES UP ON MINNEAPOLIS BY BEATING TRIBE 7-4

Millers Drop Third in Row to Kansas City; Birds Virtually in Second.

By The Associated Press.
CHICAGO, July 27.—There was cause for worry in the camp of the Minneapolis Millers today. With Columbus sailing a league a notous clip and Indiana apparently unable to do better than batting the Red Birds, the Millers are having their own troubles.

The situation is not entirely new, but about three weeks ago, like the last three and a half, something more than a few.

Minneapolis last night dropped its third straight game, 7 to 4, to the Red Birds flew away with a sixth straight victory and a lead in their last 12 engagements.

This reduced Minneapolis' edge over Columbus and Indiana.

MAY ASK WRIT IN ROAD CASE

Group in Morrow County Threatens Court Action Against Trustees.

Special to The Star
 MT. GILEAD, July 27.—Lee Lanker, Franklin township trustee, with others who oppose the action of the trustees in entering into a contract with the county commissioners to turn over all gas tax money of the township for the construction of the Pulaski road, has indicated that an injunction would be asked in the common pleas court if the trustees attempted to turn the money over.

There is a fund of approximately $2,500 accumulated from the gas tax in the township and those opposing the action state that the entire gas tax receipts of the township have gone into the Pulaski road for years and that other parts of the township have not received their share.

At a meeting at the commissioners' office Tuesday at noon the commissioners stated that the action of the trustees was legal but that they would not finish the grading on the road until they were assured that the injunction would not be filed. As soon as the money is turned over to them the grading will be completed and the gravel surface put on.

The commissioners stated that there was no possibility of an injunction invalidating the agreement. It would only result, they said, in delaying the work for a few weeks.

GAS WAR SEEN AS PRICE IS SLASHED

By The Associated Press
 YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 27.—What seemed to be a gasoline price war began today in the steel district including Youngstown and Warren, with a cut of 2½ cents a gallon, which brought the price of motor gasoline to 16 cents including five cents tax.

The reduction was announced first by Standard Oil of Ohio, and other large companies followed immediately.

No reason for the reduction was announced, but observers believed it may have been due to price cutting by small dealers.

CARL RESIGNS POST AS CHORUS DIRECTOR

Canto Club Organizer Quits Position After Nine-Year Term.

Ernest C. Carl of 624 Girard avenue, one of the four organizers of the Canto club, has resigned as director of the chorus, a position which he held since the club was organized nine years ago.

His letter, asking not to be considered a candidate for the directorship for the ensuing year, was read Monday night at a called meeting of the board of directors.

Hamer D. Mitchell of North State street, assistant to T. R. Evans, director of music in the public schools, was elected to succeed Mr. Carl following a discussion of the letter by the board and the acceptance of Mr. Carl's resignation.

"As it is possible for one man to stay on a job too long, it might be well for the club to have a change," the letter read. Mr. Carl promised his whole-hearted interest and enthusiasm for the club in the future. His resignation as director will not sever his membership in the club.

Mr. Carl was unanimously elected an honorary member of the club, the first person to receive this distinction from the organization.

PEACE PLEA VOICED BY ROTARY SPEAKER

Cancellation of War Debts Urged by C. A. Engvall in Speech Here.

In a plea for universal peace and disarmament, C. A. Engvall, of Minn., a member of the peace caravan now touring the state, declared in a talk at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Rotary club at the Hotel Harding yesterday noon, that no war had ever benefited the country taking part.

He also urged a cancellation of war debts, pointing out that although the war cost this country great amounts of money, it did not compare with the lives of the soldiers of foreign countries lost before the entry of the United States in the fray.

He also expressed the belief that the cancelling of the war debts would hasten the return of more prosperous times and would go far toward promoting universal peace.

Engvall also spoke to the members of the Squarehead club last night, urging universal peace. He is expected to address the Kiwanis club meeting at Hotel Marion Thursday noon. The peace caravan, in which Engvall is accompanied by C. T. Wheeler of Petersboro, N. H., is one of four similar caravans touring the state.

At a business meeting held by the Squarehead club previous to the address, it was voted to hold meetings but once every two weeks until Oct. 1. The club has been meeting each week.

MARION YOUTH ON CRUISE UP LAKE

Midshipman W. R. Isaly, a student at Culver Military academy and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Isaly of Vernon Heights boulevard, was on a six-day cruise last week aboard the U. S. S. Wilmette, up Lake Michigan. The corps of midshipmen, including the naval band of 60 pieces, returned to Culver summer school Saturday. The cruise was a new feature of the Culver naval program this year.

Admiral Hugh Rodman, retired, director of the Culver summer schools, who commanded the American fleet in the North Sea during the World war and Capt. O. W. Fowler, retired, head of the naval school, were in command of the midshipmen. Count von Luckner and Donald MacMillan, explorer, addressed the "midships" during the cruise.

LUVISI GETS POST WITH NEW COMPANY

Wilfred Luvisi of Akron, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Luvisi of Hane avenue, has accepted a position with the Akron Super Steel Castings company, Inc., of Akron, which was recently organized. The company has taken over the foundry of the Adamson Foundry & Machine company's plant and will begin operation Aug. 15.

Mr. Luvisi will be in charge of all the metallurgical and development work for the new company. He is a graduate of Harding High school and attended Ohio State university where he was a student in the engineering department. CHINESE FAIL TO FREE JAP PRISONER
 By The Associated Press
 TOKYO, July 27.—The Sino-Japanese tension in Jehol Province, Manchuria, which recently appeared to be lessening, grew tense again today when Chinese military authorities failed to fulfill their pledge to secure the liberation of Genshiro Ishimoto, Japanese army representative who was kidnapped July 13.

For this reason serious trouble was expected unless the captive was freed soon.

FEDERAL ROAD FUND TO AID UNEMPLOYED

120 Million Appropriation To Provide 250,000 Workmen with Jobs.

By The Associated Press
 CHICAGO, July 27.—The $120,000,000 federal appropriations to aid states in highway construction is expected to furnish 250,000 men with 30 hours of work each week for 11 months.

This was revealed in a national survey which indicated that highway construction would be tripled in many states.

Relief workers throughout the country generally said they were enthusiastic over the plan, particularly because of the provision for a 30 hour week. This, they pointed out, would provide jobs for more men over a longer period of time.

Definite estimates were made by highway officials in 16 states on the number of additional men who would be put to work.

Nearly every other state in the union reported that employment would be increased substantially.

Officials in various states said that, in addition to the thousands employed on the highways, other men would benefit by the work of manufacturing the machinery and material for the road construction program. Contracting companies were particularly happy over prospects for new jobs.

Five of the injured were cleaning the tank when the explosion occurred. It was feared one man would die.

The blast, the origin of which was made the subject of an investigation, occurred in one of a score of large containers situated not far from the company's docks on Fore river.

The explosion was clearly heard and felt within a radius of more than 10 miles and a hasty estimate of the damage included more than 1,000 broken windows. The tank itself was demolished.

THE OTHER THREE LEADING BRANDS TO THIS
 SCIENTIFIC TEST OF CIGARETTE QUALITY

You three old-time cigarette brands are very proud of your cigarettes. You have a right to be! Your cigarettes are mighty good.

Each of you, quite naturally, thinks his cigarette is best. You say: "MY cigarette is Milder!" "It's Fresher!" "Kinder!" And so on.

But don't you think you might give Mr. and Mrs. John K. Smoker a little proof?

OLD GOLD begs to suggest that you have any of the great technical universities test your cigarette against OLD GOLD . . . for heat content . . . using the Calorimeter method approved by scientists throughout the world.

Coolness, as you veterans know, is a clue to cigarette quality. It indicates the choicest, purest tobacco. So how about a little cool test?

Maybe you suspect that we know OLD GOLD will win. We don't deny it. This "cool" test* of 4 leading brands has already been made 75 times . . . and OLD GOLD won consistently.

Old Man Science plays no favorites. It's merit that counts with him. He has found the finer and purer tobacco quality of OLD GOLD, just as he tells the purity of pure gold!

NOT A COUGH IN A CARLOAD

*The Verdict of Science

This is to certify that in 75 repeated cool tests made of the 4 leading cigarette brands . . . measuring the heat content of each cigarette in B. T. U.'s, with the Oxygen Bomb Calorimeter, it was shown that:

Old Gold averages 112 B.T.U.'s. Cooler than Brand X
 Old Gold averages 155 B.T.U.'s. Cooler than Brand Y
 Old Gold averages 156 B.T.U.'s. Cooler than Brand Z

Tests of the heat of the smoke showed Old Gold smoke definitely cooler than that of the other brands.
